If proven successful, approximately 5 million dominoes are scheduled to fall on February 9, 2008 at 6:00 pm. Local East Bay Area high schools and schools in Hong Kong and China will collaborate to create what will be the longest domino chain in history. NexusBridge, a web portal launched late last year organized the event to help connect students and educators in U.S. and China. The event will be televised live through web streaming just before Chinese New Year.
